WAR'S GREATEST HERO IS INVITED TO SPEAK IN MAYSVILLE

Sergeant Alvin York Proposes to Cover the Nation in Effort to Establish University and Is Extended Invitation to Come to Maysville.

Sergeant Alvin York, the greatest hero of the World War, was extended an invitation to Maysville today by Secretary Carl Dodds, of the Maysville Chamber of Commerce. York plans to establish a University for the young men and women of the mountains of Tennessee and expects to speak in many of the prominent cities of the country.

The invitation sent Sergeant York today by Secretary Dodds follows:

Sergeant Alvin York,
Pall Mall, Tenn.
My dear Mr. York:

We are interested in the article recently released by the Associated Press to the effect that you are planning to establish the York University for the education of the young men and women of rural and mountain sections of Tennessee.

We also note in this same article that you are planning to make a tour of some of the principal cities of the country relating some of the incidents of your life and your part in the war in an endeavor to secure funds for carrying out your plans.

We would greatly enjoy having you pay Maysville a visit if arrangements can be made so as not to conflict with any of the events we have on at present.

We would like information as to the dates that would be convenient for you to be in Maysville and on what financial basis you are booking your dates. Hoping that you will be able to favor us with an early reply, I remain Yours very truly,

CARL DODDS,
Secretary-Manager,
Maysville Chamber of Commerce.

FORMER RESIDENT DIES AT HER ILLINOIS HOME

Mrs. John Ricketts, Native of This City, Dies in Bloomington, Ill., at Advanced Age.

The Bloomington, Ill., Pantagraph says: Mrs. John Ricketts, age 89, one of the oldest residents of central Illinois, died at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Charles Hitch, 811 West Oakland avenue, at 12:05 o'clock this morning. She had been ill about one week. Death was due to a complication caused by advanced age.

Mrs. Ricketts came to this city from Ohio, before any railroads provided travel here. Mr. and Mrs. Ricketts made the trip from their Ohio home by water to the Mississippi river, then up the Illinois river to Pekin. From that place they came to this city by wagon over an established trail.

Mr. Ricketts for many years, before his death, worked for the Evans and Son Lumber Company. He built many of the beautiful homes of the city. When the family came to this city they resided in a home on the present site of the W. B. Read & Co. store on the west side of the square.

Mrs. Ricketts, whose maiden name was Anna M. Nicholson, was a descendant of Daniel Boone. She was born in Maysville, Ky., December 1, 1830, and was married to John Ricketts, December 7, 1852. They came to this city shortly after their marriage.

FIGHTS ARE HOT AS EVE OF ELECTION IS HERE; ALL ARE BUSY

Indications Today Are That Race For Governor in Mason County Will Be Very Close—Suffrage Cuts Figure in Representative Race.

The eve of the Primary Election is at hand and all indicators point to the fact that the race will be no walk-away in Mason county but that in the Governor's fight there will be a practical horse race and that throughout the county precincts the farmers, who just now are in a very good condition to leave their fields and go to the polls, will be out more than was thought they would two or even one week ago. Lack of interest will be the only thing to keep them away, it is stated, as the drought has stopped practically all rush work on the farms.

During all of this week Black supporters have been busy riding the county and visiting every precinct. It is understood that the Governor has a splendid organization without a single break in all of the 22 precincts in the county, while the Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals is said to have part of an organization with many places where the fences have been left down.

Much interest has been taken by Democrats in the city of Maysville during the past few days in a card that has been handed about by Carroll supporters and which is also being handed about by Black supporters. The card tells of Judge Carroll's tax reform promise and the last paragraph says: "Carroll is obligated to take the State tax off of land, and expects your support in the primary on August 2." This paragraph is being read to the city tax payer with an explanation that the taking of State tax off of farm lands, as promised, will necessarily increase the taxes of the city man. It is thought that this last stunt of the Black supporters in attacking Judge Carroll's promised tax reform will change many votes.

Although the supporters of both candidates are claiming the county for their champion, to the outsider the race looks too close for any wild predictions and it will not be surprising to the person who has all the facts to see either candidate claim Mason county for his own Saturday night.

The Representative race has developed into a sort of suffrage fight within the week. Calvert Early has answered the Mason County Suffrage League informing them that he is opposed to woman suffrage and the ratification of the Federal Suffrage amendment while Bernard Pollitt says that he will vote the will of the majority of Mason countians.

There has been no change in the attitude of the majority of the voters in the Democratic primary on the Lieutenant Governor's race and Shanks seems to have things his own way although Oldham will get many votes.

Ryland Musick, of Jackson, was here during the week putting in some hunches in his race for the Democratic nomination for Attorney General and he has cut in considerably on what otherwise would have looked like a big land slide for Frank Dougherty, although it is still figured that Dougherty will carry the county, having a lead on things. Musick is the only Ninth District candidate on the Democratic ticket and this has made for him many votes in Mason county.

As E. C. Kash is the Ninth District candidate for the Republican nomination for Railroad Commissioner, it is figured that he will receive practically the solid vote of the Republicans in the primary Saturday and Charles I. Dawson will unquestionably receive the majority of the Republican votes in his race for the nomination for Attorney General.

Water Situation Still Serious; Work Continues Day and Night

Gauge at City Fire Department Shows That Pressure Is Steadily Diminishing But Good Stream Is Going Into Reservoir—Precautions are Taken.

The water situation in Maysville remains serious although the force of the Maysville Water Company has been working night and day in an effort to protect the city from a very serious water famine which would prove quite disastrous especially so in case of fire.

Working all night last night, the workmen at the Water Works had the small bank pump operating until a very early hour this morning when it broke down and for several hours there was no pump running. At about eleven o'clock this morning one of the small house pumps was started and at three o'clock this afternoon it was still operating throwing a good sized stream into the reservoir while the force was at work on the bank pump to repair it and they expected to have it operating too by six o'clock this evening. With both pumps operating the reservoir would soon be filled.

Taking all possible precautions, Mayor Russell this morning cut off the supply of water to the C. & O. engines at the local station and they are required to procure their water elsewhere until the situation is relieved. The stand pipe on Edgemont which furnishes water to the residents of that suburb is dry and they must seek their water elsewhere. The Maysville Electric Light Plant is preparing to pump their own water from the Ohio river for their large turbine engines thereby releasing a large quantity of water daily for use in the homes and smaller plants and factories.

At the request of Mayor T. M. Russell, the Government Engineers at Dam 33 have one of their dredge boats at work near the intake of the Water Works clearing away much rubbish so that the pumps can work to a better advantage.

If the Water Company employees are successful in getting the second pump to work this evening the situation will soon be relieved but on the other hand, should there be an accident to put the one pump now in operation, out of commission, there would be a serious water famine within two hours as there is no more than two feet of water in the reservoir at the present time.

The city's average pressure is 142 pounds but the pressure as registered on the gauge at the City Fire Department for the past several hours is as follows:

Thursday 9 p. m.—78.
Friday 7:30 a. m.—65.
Friday 1 p. m.—55.
Friday 2 p. m.—50.
Friday 2:45 p. m.—47.
Friday 4 p. m.—47.

DUMP BURNS ALL NIGHT LONG

The city dump on Bridge street caught fire Thursday morning and burned all day and all night. The scarcity of water prevented the Fire Department from extinguishing it, however, they were on guard to see that no damage was done adjoining property.

CENSUS DISCLOSES 410 CAMPERS AT RUGGLES CAMP

Annual Memorial Services Held and Dead Are Honored by Addresses.

Ruggles Campgrounds, July 31.—The first accident of a serious nature occurred today. Little Joe Simons fell from a rope swing that the youngsters had been enjoying out in the woods and broke his arm. Dr. Yazell of Maysville was sent for immediately and the little fellow is now getting on all right.

County Assessor Stanley Brady of Maysville was out for a short while today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Albert Hill and Mrs. Leo Hannan of Maysville, spent the day visiting campers and attending the splendid services.

Mrs. Dale Bryant of Maysville is out for a few days camping with the Rev. and Mrs. Luther C. Godbey.

Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Williams of Germantown are among the later additions to the campers.

Mr. H. Carr Pollitt got back today from his trip throughout central Kentucky and will be with us now until the close of the meetings.

The camp was visited by a fine rain this afternoon, accompanied by a very strong wind. But never was a rain more welcome. The grounds had gotten very dusty as also were the roads. So dusty was the inner grounds that a water cart was put into operation this morning to try and lay the dust. The rain has freshened things up, not only the grounds but the campers. For there is no concealing the fact that the heat and dust had become almost unendurable. Now we can be assured of comfort over Sunday. The grounds will be at their very best.

The annual memorial services and Communion of Our Lord's Supper was held this morning, bringing to the tabernacle the largest week-day morning crowd of the meeting. The communion service was held first and was participated in by the largest number of communicants we have seen here. Following this Superintendent Litaler read the names of campers who have passed over during the last year. The names follow: Rev. H. C. Northcott, I. M. Lane, Rev. Fred T. Kelley, Mrs. William Hamrick, Mrs. J. F. Ruggles and two children, Edith Snapp, Walter I. Nauman, Hugh Stanley Lawwell, Mrs. Anna Morris, Orvil Breeze, Mrs. Lena Henderson Owens, Archie Rowland, Robert Yazell, Preston Clark, W.

OUR POLICY

To support such measures as are unquestionably for the good of Mason County as an entire community, rather than such propositions as are in favor of the individual interest, or of one section as against another. And likewise to earnestly and consistently oppose all things that are not for the good of the County as a whole.

RECOGNITION FOR IRELAND

Eamonn de Valera, the so-called President of the Irish Republic, asked recently by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch to state precisely what his purpose was in America, replied that it was to get the United States to recognize the Irish Republic, and to do it "irrespective of whether it pleases England or not."

There is a certain undeniable appeal in the nerve with which this brilliant young leader enters upon his daring mission and the assurance with which he states his case. But it is possible, while admiring his courage and eloquence and while remembering the wrongs of his country and sharing in American sympathy for those wrongs, to realize what an unprecedented and perilous thing it is that he proposes.

How can the United States, through a resolution of Congress approved by the President, formally recognize the independence of Ireland under existing conditions?

Ireland is, in international law and in the eyes of the world, a part of the British Empire. Most Americans think that Ireland ought not to be a part of that empire. But she is. And this being the case, the Irish problem is a domestic problem. Strictly speaking, it is no more comes within the provinces of a body like the peace conference than does the status of the Philippines or Porto Rico.

So far, therefore, as the United States is concerned, it is not a political problem, but a moral problem. That is, the United States government can not properly intervene. The only legitimate process is the exertion of moral influence by the American people, along the same lines that have hitherto been effective, and may be more effective hereafter if the matter is wisely directed.

It has been truly said that the United States has no more business in giving formal recognition to Ireland just now than Great Britain would have in recognizing the independence of the Philippines. Either would be taken as a flagrant insult. Either would upset the peace treaty and might lead to war.

Most of Ireland's level-headed friends in this country believe that it is possible to right Irish wrongs without rushing into any such dubious enterprise as this, which might upset the world again without accomplishing its purpose.—Lexington Leader.

AMERICANISM WITH PEACE, OR INTERNATIONALISM WITH WAR

This has become the issue in national affairs, through the persistence of the President in placing the league scheme as a rider on the treaty of peace. Preservation of American independence and perpetuation of American institutions is a constructive task requiring edict of the treaty unless the league scheme can be eliminated. To place the welfare of the nation first, is the highest duty of a citizen, as also, his highest contribution to the interests of his party. Measured by this standard, the soundness of which cannot be questioned, those who oppose the proposed league covenant are in the highest sense constructive, and partisan only in the sense that they are American without qualification, without hyphens, without "ifs," or "and's," or "buts."

Of that character of partisanship and constructiveness this nation is in direst need.

LET THE PEOPLE KNOW

A leading Democratic paper of the Pacific Northwest asserts that if the Senate refuses to accept the President's "Fair Offer" to place all the information he possesses at their disposal, they will stand under a terrible indictment. Then what will the President himself fail to make good his offer? But it is not the Senate alone that wants information. The Senate is merely the servant of the people of the United States. The people of the country want the information, and the President can give it to them by going to the Senate and addressing them fully, setting forth the reasons for the objectionable features of the peace treaty, the meaning of the obscure provisions of the league of nations covenant, and the steps in the negotiations which resulted in his agreeing to a contract which requires this nation to make what he calls a "supreme sacrifice."

CLEANING HOUSE

Senator Bert M. Fernald, of Maine, chairman of the Senate committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, is making preparations for a sweeping investigation of the activities of the Housing Corporation, of the Department of Labor. Chairman Fernald has secured the services of an expert lawyer from Missouri to take charge of the investigation, giving as his reason the fact that he himself is not a lawyer and wishes the investigation to be exact and thorough. It is expected that many sensational angles will develop as the investigation progresses, owing to the varied and numerous complaints and charges against the Housing Corporation.

BIG MARKET BRINGS ECONOMIC METHODS

New York.—With the price of pineapples what it is, how could the manufacturer of a dessert gelatine afford to use half a pineapple to flavor a single package of his goods? No, that was too much for a New York woman to believe, so she clipped the advertisement and sent it to the National Vigilance Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs, expressing her astonishment that the owners of the paper in which the advertisement appeared did not know better and, therefore, refuse to publish such an advertisement.

Then she learned something about modern business—about the manner in which a big company that establishes a wide market through advertising, can bring down prices through quantity production.

The investigation showed that the pineapples were not bought on the New York market, of course. They were pineapples too ripe to ship from Hawaii, and were crushed there, and the juice shipped to the factory in the United States.

It was shown that the advertisement was absolutely true, but even at that, the advertiser seeking the advertising association for calling his attention to the question the woman raised. He figured that others, too, might doubt the statement, and he said that he hoped to be able to explain the matter in enough detail in future announcements to make people understand and appreciate the situation. Truthful advertising, fully believable is the only kind that can pay in the long run, the manufacturer declares.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

AUGUST 3, 1919.

Topic: Christian Worship.
Jno. 4:1-10, 19-24.

REV. J. J. DICKEY.

In the lesson, the Samaritan woman thought that Mount Gerizim, was the place to worship, but Jesus told her that it was not where men worshiped but how they worshiped was the important thing. Yet God designated places of worship. He was pleased when Solomon built the magnificent temple at Jerusalem, and transferred the place of worship from the tabernacle which God had ordered built for worship, to the temple. As important as it is that we frequent the places of worship established throughout the land, it is far more important that we fix our hearts and minds on God and give to him adoration, praise, thanksgiving and supplication. This we must do daily at home as well as at church. While the senses may be used, the soul is the seat of worship. Love is the very essence of worship.

Musical instruments may be employed in the worship of God. Through them the soul is led up to Jehovah in sentiment of gratitude, love and adoration. They may be used to awaken sentiments of praise and thanksgiving and their use may intensify all modes of worship. It is to be deplored that this is not always the case.

Devout people love to assemble together for worship. It strengthens our faith and quickens our zeal, to meet fellow Christians in the house of God worshipping with us. There is a great dearth of worshippers in the churches today. It is no evidence that a man is a worshipper because he absent himself from the house of God. It is an indication that he is not a true worshipper. A glowing heart seeks an outlet for praise and finds it in the services of God's house. The whole-sale desertion of the house of God augurs ill to the land. It is an indication of the decline of spiritual worship. It is cause of alarm. The spiritual worshiper delights in the public service. The man and woman who spends much time in reading God's word and in prayer at home, will be glad when it is said, "Let us go up to the house of the Lord." We need a revival of church attendance. It would be a mighty agency in promoting revival of spiritual worship.

Again we need a revival of family worship. This in turn would stimulate both private and public worship. The really devout worshipper will employ all of these methods, or use all of these places in communing with God.

We really worship only when we pour out our souls to God in praise and prayer. Only the heart in which the Holy Spirit dwells can really and truly worship. Therefore "Just seek the Kingdom of God and his righteousness" and then "we can worship him in spirit and in truth."

No need to go further—we are convinced that you can't drown a dandelion.

—NEVER COMES BACK

New York.—How long will it be before people learn to quit trading with fly-by-nights? asks a bulletin from the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World.

So many advertising clubs have found local people being "flim-flamed" by peddlers and other itinerants, says the bulletin, that active campaigns have been started to educate people not to buy merchandise offered by various types of fly-by-nights.

"The best and safest plan," says the bulletin, "with the possible exception of vegetable vendors who are known to the housewife, is to buy from established sources of supply. The merchant who is a known quantity in the community is safer to deal with, because he will be on hand to make good if the goods do not live up to expectations. It is seldom indeed that the goods of a peddler are better for the money than those offered in the usual way by established retailers, though they may seem cheaper on a basis of what the peddler claims for their quality. The fact remains that the peddler must buy in small quantities and cannot usually buy as advantageously as the regular merchant, even though some troupes of fake peddlers that have been driven out of advertising club communities have declared they were selling stocks that were salvaged from wrecked steamboats, or they have told other fairy tales that were so thin that the average housewife, it would seem, should see through them."

The "salvage from the wrecked steamer" so-and-so, the bulletin says, is one of the favorite tales of the fake peddler.

MOONLIGHT SCHOOLS WILL OPEN DURING FIRST OF AUGUST

Plans Are Being Perfected For Every Step of the Campaign For Reclaiming Kentucky From Illiteracy.

The opening of the Moonlight Schools on August 4 will be the great step in the campaign which is now being waged by the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission in the hope of eradicating illiteracy from the state by 1920. Besides the Moonlight Schools, several other branches of the campaign are in progress and plans are perfected for every step of the campaign for reclaiming Kentucky from illiteracy.

According to the act of the Legislature, the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission was created to wage a fight against illiteracy in the hope of completely eradicating it from the state by 1920, and with this in view the Commission is bending every effort to make the remaining months count. The report of Nat B. Sewell, State Inspector and Examiner, rendered in December 1918, shows that approximately 100,000 illiterates were taught to read and write through the work of the Commission and that a similar number yet remained to be taught during the existence of the Illiteracy Commission. The organization is perfected and it is the aim of the Commission to reach the remaining 100,000 before the 1920 census.

Many of the teachers are beginning their fourth or fifth year of volunteer service in the counties of the state and all are confident of wiping illiteracy out of their districts during the campaign. The sessions which open August 4 will be followed by successive sessions in other counties of the state, the Moonlight school openings following close upon the beginning of the day school terms. During the six weeks' session adult illiterates who are unable to attend the Moonlight Schools will be taken care of in their homes so that by the end of the term, it is hoped all residents will be able to read and write and the ban of illiteracy will be lifted from Kentucky.

A force of County Illiteracy Agents have been trained by the Kentucky Illiteracy Commission and assigned to various counties for the campaign. Another group is to be trained by the Commission at an Institute to be held in Frankfort this week. The agents will not only direct the teaching but will act as attendance officers in their area. Their work being directly among the parents gives them an opportunity to influence those parents to send their children to school. The organization is complete for the opening of the first session on August 4 with the County Illiteracy Agents in direct

Why Central Can Not Answer Questions

The duty of the switchboard operator is to answer your number calls and get connections for you.

If she stopped to answer questions, the number of calls would pile up and the service would be delayed; this would be an injustice to the other subscribers.

When in response to a question, the operator says: "I will give you Chief Operator", she is obeying her instruction.

If you cannot find what you want in the telephone directory, ask the operator for "Chief Operator" and she will connect you with the "Chief Operator" where your questions will be promptly answered.

CENSUS DISCLOSES

A. Foxworthy, Amanda Fitch, Mrs. H. M. Harrison and Sarah Winters, (colored.) The list is an usually long one which is accounted for in two ways: the war and the influenza. Five of the above number died in the service of their country Hugh Lawwill, Walter I. Nauman, Robert Yazell, W. A. Foxworthy and Preston Clark. Rev. Bradford spoke to the memory of Brother Northcott paying a well-deserved tribute to the memory of he who founded Ruggles Campmeeting. He it was who blazed the way through this section when it was a great forest. The speaker referred in fulsome terms to the mighty good that had come to this country through Ruggles Campmeeting. Hundreds have been converted and thousands have been helped in their Christian lives by their attendance here.

Dr. Bunton spoke to the memory of I. M. Lane who since Brother Northcott had founded the campmeeting had been chiefly instrumental in God's providence in carrying on the great work. Never in our experience have we heard a more touching tribute than that spoken by Dr. Bunton. The great audience was melted to tears as he spoke of the truly character of Mr. Lane. He spoke of his work in connection with the campmeeting, with his own beloved church, as a business man, and as a father who reared a family for God.

Dr. Bunton then spoke to the memory of Mrs. William Hamrick, deceased wife of our hotel man—Mr. W. H. Hamrick. He paid a splendid tribute to her Christian character and life of self-sacrifice.

Rev. Davenport spoke to the memory of Rev. Kelly who while not a regular camper at Ruggles, was one of the brightest young ministers in Kentucky.

Rev. Lital paid a tribute to the excellent character of Walter Nauman who passed away in a Southern camp shortly after the armistice was signed.

Rev. Luther Godbey spoke to the memory of Mrs. Ray Owens.

During the service the male quartet sang most tenderly a selection "I Want to Go There, Don't You?"

The census. Early this a. m. the following friends started out and took our census: Revs. Godbey, Ashley and Insko, Misses Lillian Muse, Lulu Emmons and Lillian Antle, and J. R. Currey and Howell Richardson. The following is the figures: Total number campers, 410; denominationally divided as follows: Methodists, 193; Methodist, South, 32; Disciples, 75; Presbyterian, 14; Baptist, 10; United

Our old friend "Bob" Politt of Covington, formerly of Maysville, came to the camp today. "Bob" can shake hands with more acquaintances than any man we know in the same length of time. He will enjoy camp life for a few days.

The day began with another line prayer service led by Mr. G. N. Harding. The morning service has already been referred to. A tabernacle well fitted mostly with young people, greeted Rev. Mahaffey at the afternoon young peoples' hour. The speaker gave a plain, practical message on "A Divine Plan for Life". According to promise at the close of the service he presented all the young folks with a souvenir—a pocket edition of the Gospel of St. John. Rev. Ashley and Miss Muse sang again the duet sang last night. This was done in compliance with numerous requests to hear these two splendid voices again together. Rev. Ashley and Mrs. Fetter also sang the duet "In the Garden". The more our people hear Ashley the better they like him. His work as chorister is of the highest order, and if he should consent to come again next year we are sure everyone would be pleased.

The closing service of the day in which Dr. Bunton preached is best sermon of the series was attended by the usual fine congregation. The subject of the sermon was "Where Is Your Citizenship?" With his sermon for tomorrow night he closes his series much to the regret of all. Dr. Blodgett will preach Saturday night and Sunday.

Brethren, 65; Catholics, 2; members of no church, 65. Fifty-two post offices are represented from the eleven different states. It is interesting to note from what distances people come year by year to enjoy Ruggles Campmeeting. The states represented are as follows: Kentucky, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Oklahoma, West Virginia, Florida, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Texas.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wels and daughter, Jean, Mrs. Belle Smith of Maysville, Mrs. Clara Clark of Aberdeen and Mrs. Clive Clark and son, Howard, of Newport, were visitors in camp today, guests at the Walsh cottage.

Miss Catherine Forman of Plumville arrived this afternoon and will be the guest of Miss Juanita Richardson for a few days.

This is very special. Dr. Bunton received another telegram from the Colt-Alber Chautauque Company yesterday in which they refused to let him off from his engagement with them for a lecture at Madison, Indiana, Sunday night. There had been some misunderstanding about the dates, Dr. Bunton having told them not to book him for any day in July. As Sunday happens to be in August they had him where he couldn't refuse. But the Doctor has done the next best thing. He made a flying trip to Maysville this afternoon, got in touch with ministerial headquarters at Cincinnati and returned smiling with the welcome announcement that Dr. C. W. Blodgett of that city would be the Sunday preacher. We bated to see Bunton go but the coming of Dr. Blodgett will go far towards compensating us for Dr. Bunton's absence. Dr. Blodgett is about as popular a preacher as ever came into this section of the country. He has preached here before, conducted the evangelistic services, lectured in Maysville, preached the baccalaureate sermon for the Maysville High School several years ago, and in many other ways has endeared himself to people in this part of the country. We are sure that many, many will come who otherwise might not have come, when they learn that Dr. Blodgett will be here.

With his sermon for tomorrow night he closes his series much to the regret of all. Dr. Blodgett will preach Saturday night and Sunday.

Our old friend "Bob" Politt of Covington, formerly of Maysville, came to the camp today. "Bob" can shake hands with more acquaintances than any man we know in the same length of time. He will enjoy camp life for a few days.

The day began with another line prayer service led by Mr. G. N. Harding. The morning service has already been referred to. A tabernacle well fitted mostly with young people, greeted Rev. Mahaffey at the afternoon young peoples' hour. The speaker gave a plain, practical message on "A Divine Plan for Life". According to promise at the close of the service he presented all the young folks with a souvenir—a pocket edition of the Gospel of St. John. Rev. Ashley and Miss Muse sang again the duet sang last night. This was done in compliance with numerous requests to hear these two splendid voices again together. Rev. Ashley and Mrs. Fetter also sang the duet "In the Garden". The more our people hear Ashley the better they like him. His work as chorister is of the highest order, and if he should consent to come again next year we are sure everyone would be pleased.

The closing service of the day in which Dr. Bunton preached is best sermon of the series was attended by the usual fine congregation. The subject of the sermon was "Where Is Your Citizenship?" With his sermon for tomorrow night he closes his series much to the regret of all. Dr. Blodgett will preach Saturday night and Sunday.

AN OPEN LETTER

Maysville, Ky., July 30, 1919.
Mr. Calvert Early,
Maysville, Ky.

Your statement as quoted by "A Suffragist," in the July 30 issue of the Daily Independent that a woman's place is in the home and that you could not, as you see it, vote for the ratification of the Federal Suffrage Amendment, is as interesting as it is naive.

Do you come to that conclusion as a result of your own original investigations and study or have you caught it up as one of the shibboleths of the "gang?"

Let us try it for one day. Let all the women stay at home. Every housekeeper gets her own breakfast, cleans her own house, nurses her own baby, nurses her own sick—the cook, house maid, children's nurse, and trained nurse are at home.

The laundries are all closed—the women employees are at home. The mills, shops, factories are closed—the women workers are all at home.

The department stores are inoperative—the women clerks are at home. The schools are closed—the teachers are at home.

The hospitals are paralyzed—the nurses are at home.

The lawyers, doctors, bankers, and business offices of all kinds are practically paralyzed—the stenographers are at home.

The government offices, municipal, county, state and national, are crippled—the women stenographers and clerks are at home.

The wheels of all business are stopped—the telephone girls are all at home.

Most retail businesses are reduced to the minimum—the shoppers and moving picture goers are all at home.

The streets are in large measure deserted, and pleasure resorts depressing spectacles—the women are all at home.

What shall we say of the poor churches, with only the men who are in the habit of attending present in the services? The women are all at home.

Did you really mean what you said? Or did you mean something like this? That the highest, most blessed work that a woman can do in the world is to keep well a home and to rear healthy, well-trained children?

But, can a woman keep her home well and rear healthy children in communities where the housing conditions are bad and unsanitary, where the water supply is impure, the milk supply impure, and the profiteering of selfish male citizens, empowered with the vote, makes the cost of wholesome living beyond the reach of her meager purse?

Can she bring up children of clean, high character in a community where the laws for the preservation of order and the general good are either poor or else poorly enforced?

Now, the most effective instrument that has been devised up to the present time for regulating the conditions of civilized life is the ballot, and since women are so vitally interested in all the conditions that are affected by the ballot, they have not only the right to the use of the ballot but they have a bounded duty to do all in their power to remove every obstruction that stands in the way of their rightful use of this effective instrument.

You said some women would use the ballot but others would not. This is just as true of men. We have not yet come to the place where the State feels justified in requiring its citizens to vote, but certainly you will not deny that it is the function and the duty of the State to remove any arbitrary obstacles that may stand in the way of citizens exercising the right to vote.

Now, Mr. Early, you have fallen back on a long ago exploded shibboleth, which would indicate that you have not been keeping abreast of modern thought and the march of events. If this is true of a subject that began to be agitated in the United States in 1838 and has been constantly increasing in strength and volume until the present day, what guarantee have the citizens of Mason county that you are any more modern in your ideas on other matters that effect our general well-being?

What do you know about the conditions in our State Reformatories as compared with conditions and practices in the more advanced States? What do you know about the remediable conditions that have produced our large numbers of delinquents, defectives, dependents, derelicts? What constructive and preventive measures have you to propose? What better remedial agencies than we now have in our State?

What do you know about our Asylums for the Insane, the State Penitentiaries, the Schools for the Blind, the Schools for the Deaf and Dumb, the Feeble-Minded Institution, the Colony for the Feeble-Minded, our very poorly devised and worse administered Educational System?

What do you know about the problem of good roads? What do you know about the vexed problem of taxation? Why is it that we boast in Kentucky of the largest and richest natural resources of any State in the Union and yet find our State institutions so inadequately provided for and our State debt increasing by leaps and bounds? Haven't we had too much politics and too little statesmanship?

What is your program? Since you think the woman's place is in the home, do you share also that twin opinion that there should be no interference with the Personal Liberty of a citizen to destroy his earning power, waste his earnings, and bring to shame and wait the woman whose life and happiness he took into his keeping and the children for whose being he is responsible, or to cast them all a burden upon the honest taxpayer?

Since you think the woman's place is in the home, do you share also that twin opinion that there should be no interference with the Personal Liberty of a citizen to destroy his earning power, waste his earnings, and bring to shame and wait the woman whose life and happiness he took into his keeping and the children for whose being he is responsible, or to cast them all a burden upon the honest taxpayer?

"Women's place is the home" and the "Personal Liberty" doctrine are inseparable running-mates. Are they separated in your own mind?

We voted billions of money, millions of men, gave two years of high pressure work, screamed the eagle, flew the flag, and stirred things up generally to defeat the military enemies of democracy.

Now is it worth the time of a citizen, with a record for accomplishment, who has given earnest thought and study to our institutions and the questions of government, to give sixty days of his time to go down to Frankfort and help improve all the conditions of living in the great Commonwealth of Kentucky?

Having destroyed the enemies of Liberty, shall we now make intelligent use of Liberty? How much thought have you given to the subject?

Is your answer to "A Suffragist," "A woman's place is in the home," a sample of the thinking you have been doing on all these questions that so closely effect our individual and corporate life?

I am sure the citizens of Mason County will be interested in your reply.

Yours for a forward looking Kentucky and a greater democracy,
A MASON COUNTY WOMAN.
